William Second Earl of Dartmouth

Lord Dartmouth was the first subscriber in 1769, to the fund which Occom and Whitaker were attempting to collect for Wheelock's new school in America. He was most influential in making their mission a success, and gave his name to the institution.

Asa Dodge Smith President of Dartmouth College 1863-1877

During this administration the Thayer School and the Agricultural College were established.

Labor Day marked the start of long weeks of hard practice that were to follow, for the squad had a mighty task confronting them. Having achieved in 1925, after 43 years of intense struggle, a countrywide championship, only to suffer bitter defeat in 1926, the Dartmouth Coaches, headed by Jess Hawley, had to prove to the sporting public that the Big Green was capable of retaining her place among the foremost of football aggregations.

A wealth of material was available for the backfield and the end situation was not serious, but prospects for the line were dubious as Phillips and Langdell were the only men who reported for duty that had had previous experience in that phase of the game.

The team was first seen in action against the Norwich Cadets, who open our season annually, and the usual Delta Alpha accompaniment together with the Cadet Corps in full made the game a very attractive one. Dartmouth's strength was unknown but the Cadets had a heavy, inexperienced team, and the Indians were conceded an edge. Norwich succeeded in making little headway against overwhelming odds and fell before a brilliant aerial attack, 47-0. The Dartmouth backfield, although somewhat ragged, functioned well for an early season encounter but the line was extremely weak.

When Hobart was encountered on the following Saturday, a peculiar situation faced the worried coaches, for Dartmouth's weakness was found where her strength had previously existed. The line was greatly improved but the forward pass presented a problem from a defensive as well as an offensive standpoint. Myles Lane, the veteran of the backfield, carried the brunt of the offense, scoring four touchdowns as his share of a 46-0 victory.

The Alleghany game which followed, accentuated the Green and White's fear for her major opponents offensive powers. Although very much outweighed, Alleghany clearly outplayed Dartmouth in the first half of the game and crossed the Indian's goal line for the first time, giving her stands a genuine scare. It was not until the Green and White's backfield settled into its perfectly co-ordinated stride that they were able to forge ahead, the final score being 38-7.

Temple University, whose team was composed of old and seasoned veterans, was considered by the squad to be its first dangerous opponent. The Big Green, displaying perfect team work and a versatile backfield behind a strong line, overwhelmingly swamped Temple, 49-0, administering to them their only defeat of the season. The contest proved that Dartmouth's line was at last in condition to protect a fast and powerful backfield and that prospects for a good scoring organization were very bright.

The next week the general exodus to Cambridge was made in a skeptical mood, as on the previous Saturday the Harvard eleven had administered a crushing defeat to Holy Cross. Killkelley was injured in the first few minutes of play and was replaced by Gow. The team played some of its best football for the year and returned to Hanover with more points than they had ever scored before in the Stadium, having run up thirty points to Harvard's six. The entire backfield functioned perfectly, Marsters and Lane carrying the pig skin for sweeping end runs with Hamm and MacPhail bearing the brunt of the interference.

In the last four years Dartmouth has played Yale three times and each time has found them to be a stumbling block of large proportions. This season's game was no exception. The Dartmouth aggregation, playing for the first time under a non-scouting agreement, was decidedly off-color and could neither finish a convincing offensive drive nor solve the problem of stopping the powerful Yale charge. On the other hand, the Yale team, in the opinion of its coach, Tad Jones, played its best game of the season and with a driving backfield working behind the finest line in the east, battered its way to three touchdowns, thus giving Dartmouth her only defeat of the season. In the first periods of play, the Big Green twice carried the ball to the shadow of the Bulldog's goal, but the strength of the Yale line proved unconquerable. Marsters' phenomenal open field running was the feature of the day for Dartmouth. The game was played under a broiling sun which considerably hindered the players, and caused many substitutions to be made.

One of the high points of the season was the trip to Providence. The team left on Friday in a fleet of motor cars accompanied by a wrecking crew. The flood was then at its height and most of the traffic and weather experts were dubious regarding their success in getting through to Concord where arrangements had been made to meet a special train. To say the least, it was a perilous and an exciting trip. After travelling through miles of mud and detours, they finally arrived in Concord just in time to catch the train for Boston. The next day the team played football as taught by Jess Hawley:

namely, to score the moment an opportunity presents itself, and this team scored three touchdowns on Brown something no other Dartmouth team has been able to do since 1905. The game also proved that able substitutes were in the making, Tex Cole and Hamm doing particularly well.

The Green aggregation reached the very peak of its season in the contest with Cornell and spectacular playing featured the game. Marsters brought the stands to their feet time after time with his brilliant performances and assured himself of an All-American berth. The score, 53-7, in favor of Dartmouth, was indicative of her true offensive strength, once the Indian team got under way, and a beautiful aerial attack served to completely bewilder the Red and White defense. The game was a fitting end to a very successful season, marred only by a single defeat, and a tribute to the coaches and players for the perfect unity of action which was displayed.

The 1927 team will rank among Dartmouth's outstanding football aggregations, and there are three main reasons for this recognition. It scored more points than any other Dartmouth team has ever been able to score in the stadium; it scored three touchdowns on Brown, something that no other Dartmouth team has been able to do for twenty years; and last but not least, it defeated Cornell by a margin that will stand as a record for some time to come.

Review of the 1931 Freshman Football Season

Opening the season with three decisive victories, a championship seemed assured to the '31 aggregation but later setbacks blasted this hope and a year of varied success was the result.

With a hurricane drive, the yearlings crushed Andover 12-0, Cushing Academy 15-0, and Lake Forest Academy 27-0 in successive encounters, administering to Lake Forest its first defeat in five years. The next two contests proved less successful for the freshmen and they experienced defeat in bitterly contested battles at the hands of Dean Academy and Harvard '31. However, in the following game with Brown '31, the Dartmouth team recovered its winning form and romped over its opponents 27-0. The final contest of the season with the Princeton yearlings ended in a scoreless tie although the Orange and Black's ten yard line was penetrated seven times by the Dartmouth offense.

The outstanding feature of the season was the excellent team work displayed, and Sid Hazelton deserves much credit for his able coaching.

The 1927 Baseball Season

The baseball season of 1927 saw a Dartmouth nine, heralded to win the Quadrangular League Championship, go down to defeat fourteen times in twenty-four games and finish in fourth place behind Pennsylvania, Cornell and Columbia. This record of games won and lost, however, does not truthfully show the calibre of the nine that Coach Tesreau placed on the diamond last spring. The team, with the exception of H. E. Hudgins '26, was precisely the same combination that tied Columbia for first place in the Intercollegiate League in 1926 and won twenty games out of thirty-one played that season. With but two or three exceptions, the pitching and fielding was effective throughout the schedule, especially in the pinches and in all extra innings. The main fault to be found with the team was in the failure of a strong offense to connect for timely hits when winning runs were on the bases. Sluggers like Owl, Picken and Elliott, followed by other dependable hitters, formed a formidable batting array which would be disheartening for any hurler to oppose. But Green base runners were left stranded on the bags in a great majority of the games at times when they had only to cross the plate to win.

The first practice of the 1927 season was held in the cage of the Alumni Gymnasium on March 10, and because of the late spring in Hanover, Coach Tesreau was forced to develop a nine in cramped quarters until the spring training trip began on April 5. The coach's most serious problem was the filling of the shortstop position left vacant by a graduation. With McLaughlin to take Picken's place behind the plate, the latter, a most versatile player, was placed at shortstop. With that position filled, and with Dey on first, Michelini on second and Stevens on third, the Green had a fast and impregnable infield. Owl, Fusonie and Elliott formed a veteran and hard hitting outfield. The ability of the boxmen remained in doubt until they were placed under fire, when Van Riper, Carver, Gibson and Harris did all that could be asked of them throughout the season. In the early part of the schedule, Picken was returned to his old post behind the bat and Moran was given the call for shortstop. Murphy proved his worth when he went to center field after Fusonie was injured and accounted for many runs with his heavy hitting.

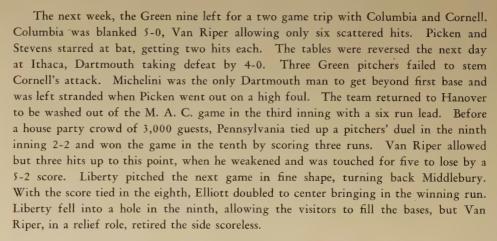

The Green nine started its season in the Sunny South on the wrong foot by losing to the Marines at Quantico, Virginia. The game was featured by four circuit clouts, two of which were made in the sixth inning by Moran and Elliott for the team's only scores. The following day, the team received a severe drubbing at the hands of Georgetown in Washington. Dartmouth closed its spring trip by losing a close one to Princeton. The Green led by a single run until the seventh, when they proceeded to muff the Tiger hits and presented them with four runs and a victory. After a ten day rest, the team went further north for two more games. They received their first whitewash at Fitten Field before a crowd of 11,000 fans, when Fons, the Holy Cross pitching ace, held the Green sluggers hitless for eight innings and atoned for the defeat of last year. Van Riper pitched a fine game, allowing only seven hits and pulling himself out of tight pinches by strike outs. The next day, the Dartmouth infield committed seven errors behind Harris and lost to Springfield College. Elliott starred with brilliant catches in the outfield which earned considerable applause from the spectators.

The Green nine returned to Hanover on April 24, this time on the right foot, and turned in a 6-5 victory over the fast Boston College team on Memorial Field. The Eagles took an early lead but Picken's homer in the fifth, with two on, evened matters. The cool weather was much more to the liking of the Green players and they came out of their batting and fielding slump to give an exhibition of fine ball playing. Boston College rallied in the ninth and filled the bases, with three runs needed to tie. The team tightened up in this crisis and held a one run lead. The next game with Yale at New Haven was lost in the tenth inning, 11-10, on a four run rally. Dartmouth scored eight runs in the first four innings, driving Yale's twirling ace, Smith, from the mound. Harris pitched well for eight innings and Van Riper was sent in to relieve him. Elliott and Owl hit for the circuit, the latter also getting a double and a single. The first League game was played and lost to Cornell in Hanover. Both teams played errorless ball and it was a 1-1 pitchers' duel between Van Riper and Vickers until the eighth inning. Michelini starred by handling nine chances at second without an error. Owl's triple and Picken's homer with bases full won the third home game for Dartmouth by defeating the University of New Hampshire. An early six run lead was held successfully for nine innings to win by one run.

Courtesy of Dartmouth Pictorial

Harris made six strike outs and Dartmouth played errorless ball to trim Fordham in New York. At Philadelphia, the team avenged its earlier defeat by beating Pennsylvania in a twelve inning pitchers' struggle between Van Riper and Sanford by a 3-2 score. Dartmouth made only one hit up to the tenth inning, a homer by Dey with one on base. Green runners filled the bases in the twelfth and Elliott scored on a wild pitch. Penn threatened in its half with a man on second but Van Riper proved his superiority by fanning the next two batsmen. Returning to Hanover, twelve Green hitters faced the Vermont hurler in the eighth inning for eight runs. Gibson pitched good ball allowing only three hits. Dey connected for a triple in the big inning.

On another two game trip, the team lost to Brown 6-4, making seven bad errors. Dartmouth made all its runs in the eighth without getting a hit. In the second game, Vermont came back at the Green with a terrible drubbing. Van Riper was knocked from the box in the second inning. Norwich University used three pitchers, an entire squad, and made ten errors to present Dartmouth with a nineteen to nothing victory. Picken starred with a home run, and Harris and Dudley, the Green pitchers, allowed only three hits. In the final League game against Columbia, Dartmouth dropped to last place by losing on poor pitching and loose fielding. Fusonie made the only tally on Dey's single to right.

The team left Hanover for a three game trip with Williams, Tufts and Harvard. Williams was defeated in a pitchers' duel between Van Riper and Ferris, both men receiving fine support. Failure to hit at the right time brought defeat at Tufts, although the Green outhit their opponents. Eleven Dartmouth runners were left on base. Picken starred at bat with a triple, double and a single. The final game was lost to Harvard in ten innings.

Harris won his own game at Commencement from Vanderbilt by a triple in the eighth and by stopping a rally in the ninth. Picken and Owl, the Green sluggers, finished their careers with a circuit clout each.

Review of the 1930 Freshman Baseball Season

The 1930 Freshman ball team started its season with better success than did the 1929 Freshman team, and won four of its seven contests. At first the playing was not enthusiastic but the team reached its peak in mid-season when it defeated St. Anslem's 5-4 in a closely fought game of thirteen innings.

Although the scores in most of the games were very close, the Freshmen defeated Huntington School 22-2, and lost to Andover 1-7. The 1930 team easily took the first games from Clark School and Cushing Academy. The game with Dean Academy was close and was not lost until a decisive ninth inning. The Freshmen were trailing Exeter 6-1 as they went into the ninth inning but rallied to give the visitors a scare only to lose 6-5 in the last game of the season.

Hollstrom and Breckenridge did some fine pitching for the team, while Austin, Booma and Sands were the most consistent hitters, and Swarthout contributed several home runs.

The 1927 Track Team

With a number of men left after graduation, Dartmouth entered the track season with a well balanced team and one which proved very successful, losing to but one opponent, Harvard.

The season opened with the Knights of Columbus meet at Boston on the night of January 22. The first event to be run on the program was the 45-yard hurdles in which Wells established a new world's record, leading a field of many outstanding stars of the East. Dartmouth also had entered a mile relay team which defeated Boston College and New Hampshire State in a triangular event.

Two weeks later Dartmouth sent a few members of the team to the Boston A. A. games. Wells equalled his own world's record in the 45-yard hurdles, while Black won second place. Maynard was the only other point winner for Dartmouth, placing second in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 2 inches. The Green mile relay team was narrowly defeated by Syracuse.

February 26 found the team in Boston ready to meet Harvard and Cornell in the annual triangular classic. Due to the many mishaps which befell the Dartmouth team, Harvard gained a decisive victory with 54½ points to Dartmouth's 33 and Cornell's 28¾. Wells took first in the 45-yard hurdles; Smith tied for second in the pole vault; Keith was second in the mile; and Swope third in the 600-yard run.

The I. C. A. A. A. meet in New York, in which Dartmouth finished sixth, concluded the indoor season. The meet was the closest ever held, and was only decided by the last event. There was but a ten point difference between first and sixth place. Wells in his usual excellent form won the 70-yard high hurdles while Maynard took the high jump with a jump of 6 feet ½ inch. The two mile relay team placed third, due mainly to the efforts of Swope and Martin.

Our outdoor season began with winning both of the meets on the Spring Southern trip. Dartmouth won twelve first places in the thirteen events against William and Mary. Wells was the most consistent point winner for the Green, taking four first places in the two hurdle events in both meets. Black was close at his heels in all races, and won three second places and a third. McAvoy won three first places and a second in the discus and shot put events. In the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes Cooley secured two first places against William and Mary, and two second places against the University of Virginia. Martin won the 880-yard run in both meets, and the mile against the Cavaliers. The javelin was won by Gow in the first meet and Covert in the second. Ketz took two first places in the broad jump. Maynard and Herrmann twice tied for first in the high jump. Swope won the 440-yard against both of the Virginia colleges.

The third meet scheduled on the trip was called off on account of rain.

Dartmouth by taking ten of the fifteen first places, defeated the Pennsylvania team. The meet was closely contested throughout, Pennsylvania having enough second and third places to keep the result in doubt until the final event. Wells won the hurdles. Swope was first in the 440-yard, and second in the 880-yard run. Martin won first place in the 880-yard and second in the mile run. Dartmouth took all three places in the hammer throw which was won by Zaro. The high jump was conceded to Maynard on a jump of 6 feet 3 inches. Glendinning placed first in the 100-yard and third in the 220-yard dash. The pole vault was won by Smith.

On May 14 the Green again met Harvard in Boston, and the outcome was in doubt until the last event. Wells as usual won the two hurdle events, with Black scoring second. Glendinning finished second in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Swope, with his customary burst of speed at the finish, won the quarter mile. The discus throw was won by McAvoy, who also placed third in the shot put. Smith tied for first place in the pole vault. Other point winners were Hetfield, Pierce, Strangward, Martin, Zaro and Phillips.

In the last dual meet of the season the Dartmouth team overwhelmed Colgate with a score of 111 to 24. The Green athletes, running under ideal weather conditions, turned in their best performances of the year. Dartmouth won every first place except in the high jump which resulted in a tie, and also captured all three places in the shot put, hammer throw, and 220-yard dash. Glendinning broke the college record in the latter event with a time of 21-2/5 seconds, while Wells equalled Earl Thompson's mark of 24-2/5 seconds in the 220-yard low hurdles.

The 1927 track season was brought to a close by the annual Intercollegiate Track Meet which was held at Philadelphia. The Green emerged from it with two Intercollegiate championships and a total of 16 points, taking fifth place in the competition among 33 colleges and universities. Wells and Maynard were the Green stars. Martin earned 2 points in the half mile, and Swope completed Dartmouth's score with a fifth place in the quarter mile.

Review of the 1930 Freshman Track Season

The B. A. A. Games ushered in the Track Season for the Freshman. In this meet, the relay team placed second to the Harvard first year men in a thrilling race that was decided only at the tape. On February 26, the same Freshman quartet, consisting of Alcorn, Marsters, E. Latham and D. Latham, participated in a triangular meet at Boston with the Harvard and Cornell Yearlings. The Freshmen avenged their earlier defeat by winning the relay race in fine style. Andover was squelched by the Freshmen in their first indoor duel meet of the season, held in Hanover on March 5. The Dartmouth men gained nine of eleven possible first places and defeated their opponents 64-35. Exeter was conquered on March 19 by a score of 77-22.

The first outdoor meet was held with the New Hampshire '30 aggregation, which was defeated 85-41. Two weeks later the team travelled to Exeter and returned with an 88-37 victory. Twenty-eight men made the trip to Andover on May 27, concluding the 1930 Track Season. The meet was very closely contested until the Andover athletes made clean sweeps in the High Jump, Pole Vault, Javelin and Hammer Throw. This proved too much for the Freshmen and the final count favored the prep school, Captain E. Latham, Alcorn, D. Latham, Marsters, Mackey and McQuiston were the most consistent scorers for the Green during the season.

Review of the 1927-28 Basketball Season

At the start of the season of 1927-28 Dartmouth held high hopes. Seven letter men of the championship 1927 quintet were available. Dartmouth was favored to repeat, and win her second League Championship.

From the group that reported, Coach Wachter had Austin, Spaeth, and Captain Heep as veteran guards, Hein and Langdell, centers, and Vossler at forward. Captain Picken's place at forward, left vacant by graduation, was a problem. His place finally went to Swarthout, star of the 1930 Freshman team. Spaeth was tried out at forward with Swarthout, and proved himself capable. Langdell had the call at center, and Austin and Heep at the guard positions completed the regular lineup for the season.

Dartmouth, playing true to form, won the opening game of the season from Northeastern by a 38-18 score. The strong City College team was defeated in the second game, 48-32. The men showed good team play and real basketball to win from Providence 52-30, and Vermont 35-21.

Starting on its western trip, the team easily defeated M. I. T., Rochester, Buffalo, and Case School. The last two games of the trip were lost to Akron University and the University of Pittsburgh. The trip proved to be too long to be entirely successful.

On January 7 Dartmouth lost her first League game to Yale at New Haven. The team play was ragged and the shooting poor. But against the Columbia team Dartmouth came back with a 27-22 win.

The team then seemed to go into a slump and dropped the next two games to Holy Cross and Springfield by close scores.

On January 21, in her third League game and first home League encounter, Dartmouth out-guarded, out-shot, and out-played the powerful Princeton quintet to win 36-30. As a feature of the Carnival, the team met and defeated Harvard 43-21.

In a much disputed game with Pennsylvania during the second League trip, Dartmouth won by a margin of one point. This was followed by a win from Cornell at Ithaca 37-24. Heep starred in this game, scoring eight field goals. On Washington's birthday the team gained an easy victory over Columbia 26-20.

The next game with Pennsylvania was all-important. Pennsylvania in an overtime period finally won by a 35-34 score. This was one of the greatest exhibitions of basket-ball ever put on by a Dartmouth team. With Penn leading by 17 points at the half, Dartmouth forged ahead to tie the score only to lose in the overtime period.

The following Wednesday Yale pulled a surprise, and, led by Nassau, sank baskets from every angle of the floor to overcome Dartmouth 47-39. This practically spelled doom for chances at another championship.

On the last trip of the season Princeton, coming from behind, won 28-22 and earned the right to a play-off with Penn for the League Championship, which Penn won in a close game played in the Palestra. In the last game of the year Dartmouth defeated Cornell 41-29.

The individual and team play of the five regulars was the outstanding feature of the season. Captain Heep and Langdell secured positions on the All-League first team, and Swarthout and Austin on the second team.

Coach Lew Wachter's resignation at the close of the season terminated four successful years, during which Dartmouth won the championship once, finished in second place twice, and once in third place.

Won 8; Lost 3

Review of the 1928 Hockey Season

The Dartmouth hockey season of 1928 was marked by an excessive number of cancelled games, as, out of a total of 18 scheduled, eight were called off on account of unfavorable weather conditions. Consequently, the team playing without sufficient practice, won six out of ten tilts, but on the whole the play was far superior to that indicated by the record.

The squad left for Lake Placid on December 26 for a practice period including three games scheduled with Williams. However, after the team had been warming up for a day and a half, a thaw started which prevented any of the games from being played. To get some practice the team moved to Springfield where they used an indoor rink. On January 3 the first game of the year was played against M. I. T., which was easily won by an 11-1 score. The next day, the Dartmouth pucksters went down to New York to meet McGill University at Madison Square Garden. Lack of practice handicapped the Green which went down to a 4-2 defeat, though putting up a much better fight than had been expected. Two days later the team engaged Princeton at Princeton, in a very close game which Dartmouth finally lost 5-4 in the second overtime period.

As Hanover was in the throes of a slushy period, the next two games, scheduled with Boston College and Harvard at home, were cancelled, the team in the interval having no opportunity for practice. Consequently when the Dartmouth hockey team met Yale at New Haven on January 21, they were defeated 3-1, the lone point being scored by Lane toward the close of the game. Bott at goal starred for Dartmouth while Palmer tallied two out of the three goals for Yale.

No games were played during exam period but as the weather at this time was the best of the year for hockey, the squad practised every night, improving greatly in teamwork and all-around playing. In the first fracas following exams, Dartmouth, though not playing up to its practice form, defeated the Nichols Club at Buffalo 4-2. Though weather conditions prevented a game with Colgate, the Green had a field day at the expense of West Point, defeating the Army with little opposition by rolling up 12 goals to their opponent's one.

M. J. LANE
Captain

G. H. PASFIELD Manager

Carnival weekend was featured by the second game with Yale which, as always, was thrilling, Dartmouth finally losing 4-3. After playing mediocre hockey in the first period, Dartmouth improved greatly, but the poor condition of the ice hindered the play. Bavier, Gardner and Lane scored for the Green, while Palmer once again broke loose making all four of Yale's points.

This was the last defeat that Dartmouth sustained, as, after a game with Clarkson had been cancelled, the team met Harvard on February 13, before a record crowd in Boston, springing a decided surprise by trouncing the Crimson 4-1. The result was all the more unexpected as Harvard lost but one other game, to McGill, during the whole season, and among its victims included the Toronto Grads, Olympic Champions, while later in the season Yale was twice conquered by them. Dartmouth started off with a rush when, after the game had been going on for one and a half minutes, Rogers broke through the Crimson defense to score unassisted. He scored again 31 seconds later on a pass from Gardner, and the period ended with Dartmouth leading 2-0. After this the Dartmouth play was chiefly defensive but on sallies toward the Harvard goal, Bavier tallied on a long shot and Rogers made his third point. Harvard's single counter came between the third and fourth Dartmouth goals. The third period found Harvard sending its whole team down to the Green team's goal, and only the excellent work of the Dartmouth defense men prevented a goal. Bott at goal and Rogers on the offense starred for Dartmouth in a game in which the whole team played superbly.

Following this victory, the team met and defeated Brown 15-0 at home, encountering slight opposition. The final game of the season was played against Princeton at its rink on February 25. In this, Dartmouth, superior in all departments of the game, avenged its early season defeat, triumphing by 8 goals to 2. Lane, playing his last game for Dartmouth, starred, while Rogers played another excellent game.

Poor weather conditions were chiefly responsible for Dartmouth's defeats as the Green had an excellent team which only needed more practice to smooth out its defects. The reserve strength was shown by the fact that twelve letters were given, and though four men, including Captain Lane, graduate this year, the remaining eight lettermen should form the nucleus of a successful 1929 team.

Review of the 1928 Swimming Season

In the second year of competition in the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Association, the Dartmouth swimmers finished in a tie for third place with Syracuse, trailing Yale and the Navy. Four out of the seven league meets were won by the Green team, which also took the two non-league meets, while in the Intercollegiates Dartmouth finished second to Yale in the number of points scored.

Following the cancelling of a meet scheduled with a combined Toronto-McGill team, the swimming team swung into action against Columbia at Hanover on January 21, easily winning its first league encounter 43-39. In this, Bryant secured first places in the 50- and 100-yard dashes, while Birnie, in his first varsity meet, won the 440-yard swim.

No more meets were held until February 10 when the Dartmouth tankmen swam against Brown in the Carnival meet. The Springfield team was outscored 36-26 in a meet which was undecided until the relay. In addition to the relay, Dartmouth took four first places, and Bryant, again a double winner, lowered the pool record for the 50-yard event to 24-4/10 seconds, two tenths of a second below the former record. In their second league meet, the Dartmouth swimmers defated Pennsylvania by a one sided score 40-22. Another pool record was broken in this meet when Birnie won the 440-yard swim in 5:39-8/10, 9½ seconds faster than the former mark. Dartmouth placed first in every event except the 200-yard breast stroke, and was at no time behind Pennsylvania in the scoring.

In the first trip of the season, the Green swimming team broke even, losing the first meet to Princeton on February 22, and easily triumphing over C. C. N. Y. two days later. Against Princeton a win in the relay would have tied the score, as the final count was 39-23 against the Green. Bryant outspeeded Davidson, the Princeton star, in both the dashes. There was little opposition from the C. C. N. Y. swimmers, Dartmouth taking most of the first places.

Returning to Hanover, the team defeated Brown in a non-league meet 42-20, losing only one first place, the 200-yard breast stroke. Leigh, in winning the dive, showed fine form, and Birnie lapped his nearest competitor in the 440-yard swim.

The next two trips were disastrous for the Green mermen who lost meets to Yale and the Navy on successive Saturdays. Dartmouth, however, made a better showing against Yale than any of her other opponents, losing by a 34-28 score. In the 50-yard dash, Bryant and Howland, the Yale star, swam the entire race neck and neck to finish in a dead heat, while in the 100, Bryant suffered his first defeat of the year, losing to House and Howland of Yale. Leigh in the dive, McCaw in the back stroke, and the relay team won first places from the Blue. The following Saturday found the Dartmouth swimmers at Annapolis where they were beaten by the Navy in a close meet, 33-29. McCaw and Bryant were Dartmouth's first place winners.

In the last dual meet of the season, Dartmouth was the victor in a close meet with Syracuse in which the relay was the deciding factor. Bryant lowered the pool record for the 50-yard dash to 24-3/10 seconds, while McCaw nosed out his Syracuse opponent in a thrilling back stroke race.

The Intercollegiates at Philadelphia on March 23 and 24 saw four Dartmouth men placing. Bryant took third in both the dashes, McCaw finished second to House of Yale in the back stroke, last year's champion, and Hubbard won fourth place in the dive. In the season's record for points scored, Bryant led the League both in the number of points, of which he made 77, and the best average per meet, which was 11. Leigh, McCaw, and Birnie also scored over 20 points apiece in league competition. In selections for all-League positions chosen by the coaches of the association teams, Bryant was placed on the first team in both dash events.

FRESHMAN SWIMMING

The Freshman swimming team had a comparatively poor season, losing several closely contested meets, winning but one out of six during the season. Andover defeated the Dartmouth Freshmen in the first meet, while the Yale 1931 team, though winning 37-25, failed to defeat the freshmen overwhelmingly as had been predicted. The meet was not decided until the relay, which was very close. The Green yearlings lost to Worcester Academy 42-20, Burkhardt taking the freshmen's only first place in the back stroke. After losing to Brown 1931 and to Brookline High School, the Dartmouth Freshmen in the last meet of the season won their first victory, against Huntington School, 39-23, when the Green relay team triumphed by a scant margin. Captain McAllister was consistently good during the year while Burkhardt did not lose a single back stroke race in all six meets.

WATER POLO

The water polo team in the second year of its existence won two out of seven league meets to finish in sixth position. The first game against Columbia resulted in a close 24-23 win for the Green, but against Pennsylvania, Dartmouth was defeated by a score of 27-16. The next encounter with Princeton was lost 49-7, Flanagan being the only Dartmouth man to score, while two days later, C. C. N. Y. conquered the Green team. Yale and Navy water poloists inflicted one-sided defeats on the Dartmouth team, but the last game of the season with Syracuse went to Dartmouth by a score of 33-25. The defensive work of Captain Brown was outstanding, while Flanagan played well, and Harrison showed steady improvement.

Review of the 1927 Soccer Season

The Dartmouth soccer team started the 1927 season with a number of experienced players, and prospects for a very successful outcome seemed bright. The first contest of the year, with Wesleyan, was held in Hanover, and though the Wesleyan booters had several weeks of practice to their credit, they were defeated by Dartmouth, 5-1. Captain Makepeace and Lawrence were the feature players of the day for Dartmouth, and were instrumental in achieving this victory.

On the following week-end, New Hampshire University was encountered in Hanover and overcome 6-0. Though the game resulted in a victory, it proved rather unfortunate for Dartmouth as Makepeace and Lawrence incurred severe injuries when they collided in an attempt to block the ball, and were eliminated from further participation in this sport for the remainder of the season, thus seriously handicapping the team's possibilities for victory and a championship.

The next week-end, Dartmouth again enjoyed the fruits of victory, downing Spring-field College in a hard fought contest, 5-3. However, the next two encounters proved less successful and Dartmouth bowed to West Point, 3-1, and Harvard, 2-0. Stone, Woodbridge and Eastman did exceptionally well for the Green booters, but the loss of Makepeace and Lawrence was keenly felt. In the last contest of the season, a superior Yale team inflicted a 5-1 defeat. The game scheduled to be played with Cornell at Hanover, was cancelled on account of the flood.

Woodbridge, captain-elect for next year, had the distinction of being placed on the second All-American Soccer Team. The 1928 team will be considerably weakened by the loss of Makepeace, Lawrence, Marx, Eastman, Stone and Heyn, all of whom graduate this year.

Review of the 1928 Gym Season

With only four letter men from last year's aggregation with which to build up a team, Coach Kaney was faced with a difficult problem, that of producing a team which could live up to the new standard. The record was more than satisfactory and Coach Kaney and his charges deserve the greatest commendation.

The team failed to defend its Eastern title against the powerful gymnasts of Princeton. The Tiger men gained their victory in the final event of the meet, the rope climb, when Russell, the Green star, was out-speeded by a fraction of a second. But against the loss of the championship, Dartmouth has the distinction of administering the only defeat to the Navy which it has suffered in eleven years. This meet took place at Annapolis and was as closely contested as the Princeton meet, only this time the balance fell in favor of the Green.

The team opened the season on February 25, when every first and second place was captured to defeat Pennsylvania by a 48-6 score. The Green showed their superiority in every event, both in skill and versatility, and the new men proved their ability. The following week-end, Temple was buried under a similar avalanche of first and second places. On March 10, the team continued its winning streak, allowing M. I. T. to earn one second place to give them a total of 10 points. Having shown itself to be a well balanced team, the Green entered their last three engagements, the hardest of the season. At West Point, the cadets were defeated decisively, but managed to score twenty points. The next day came the Princeton upset in New Jersey, when the Orange and Black gained victory in the last event. Finally, on March 17, the Navy met its superior in the Indian tribe, and lost its first meet in many years by a 30-24 margin.

March 24 saw the anti-climax of this successful season at the Intercollegiates in Boston. Hobson won the tumbling championship and Russell won the title in the rope climb. Captain Sadler was placed fourth in individual honors, while the team would have held the same position if the meet had been a team competition.

The prospects for 1929 are bright, with only three letter men graduating. The remaining material has already shown championship calibre in competition with this year's well balanced outfit.

Review of the 1927 Golf Season

The Dartmouth Golf Team opened its season on May 5 against Holy Cross at the Worcester Country Club. The match was very closely contested, Dartmouth finally winning out, 5-4.

The next afternoon Dartmouth played Yale on the new Yale course. The result of the match was never in doubt, and Yale was the victor 8-1. On May 7 the team met Princeton and Pennsylvania. Princeton carried away the honors on the Garden City Golf Course 7-2 in the morning. In the afternoon, at the Intercollegiate Golf Course, Dartmouth defeated Penn, 6-3.

On May 20, after a brief rest, the Dartmouth golfers again journeyed to Worcester where Williams and Brown were defeated 8-1 and 6-3 respectively. In the next match, held on May 21, the Dartmouth team was defeated by Harvard in a close match at the Sandy Burr Country Club. The result of the match was in doubt until the last round of the day. The teams were tied and the outcome hinged on the best ball of the Rockwell and O'Connell—Hutchinson and Morrill match. At the end of eighteen holes the match was even. Harvard won on the nineteenth hole when O'Connell missed a short putt for a halve, making the score 5-4.

Dartmouth for the first time in several years played a match in Hanover, finding little trouble in subduing a four man team from Worcester Polytechnic Institute, 6-0.

The College tournament, held just before the close of the semester, gave the championship to Charles Proctor. Proctor defeated Rockwell, one up, in the semi-finals and went on to win from Joslyn 4-3 in the finals, played over the 36 hole course.

The Intercollegiates were held on June 28 at the Garden City Golf Club. The Dartmouth team never seemed to find itself, but managed to finish in fourth place.

This administration has been marked by a great advance in the prestige of the College, and its development as a national institution with greatly enlarged plant and facilities.

Paleopitus appeared during the period of Dartmouth's sudden growth and increased popularity under the late President Emeritus, William Jewett Tucker. In 1902 the policy of secrecy was abandoned and a reorganization effected. In 1924 another reorganization was made to keep pace with the changes in the college and to allow for a wider representation of activities. Palaeopitus has always been a senior body composed of elective members and certain members ex-officio because of their representative position.

The membership consists of twelve men, of whom four are elected by the Junior class in May, and eight are ex-officio: the Managers of Varsity Football and Track, the Manager of the Musical Clubs, the Editor-in-Chief of The Dartmouth, the President of the Dartmouth Outing Club, the President of the Dartmouth Christian Association, the President of the Arts, and one man from the group of high scholarship Seniors, chosen by election.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council, working for the first year under its new constitution, has found a strength and efficiency which this body has never before possessed. The new constitution provides that the executive committee, consisting of the four officers, shall be empowered to carry on most of the work, subject to the ratification of the council. This places the power in a smaller and more workable body, and has proved most satisfactory. The election of Prof. Charles R. Lingley to an honorary position on the executive committee, gave the body an added degree of prestige.

A change has been made in the constitution whereby the Council will pass into the hands of the Juniors at the beginning of the second semester. This relieves the Senior members of responsibility, after that time, and places the management of fraternity affairs in the hands of the Juniors, who will continue in office throughout the following rushing season.

The interfraternity bridge tournament, managed by W. C. Treanor '28, with the assistance of Professors Richardson, Beetle and Burleigh, was played off in six rounds. The tournament cup was won by Gamma Delta Epsilon, which was followed by Psi Upsilon.

Sigma Nu won the first leg on the Interfraternity snow sculpturing cup, awarded at Carnival time by the Council. Sigma Nu also had the best snow statue last year, but no prize was offered at that time. Sigma Alpha Epsilon was the winner of the basketball championship over Alpha Delta Phi, the other finalist in the tournament. Sigma Phi Epsilon took first place in the interfraternity track meet, in which Theta Delta Chi finished second.

It has been the particular effort of the Council this year to further a spirit of cooperation among the twenty-six fraternities on the campus. It was with this purpose foremost in mind that the Council altered the rushing rules which were in effect last year. The Council is confident that the new rushing rules as adopted by it will foster such a spirit among the fraternities and the freshmen. How successful the Council has been in its efforts, and how well it can use the power invested in it, will not be indicated until next fall's rushing season is concluded. And even if the results are not entirely satisfactory, the Council deserves to be praised for its attempt at constructive and significant legislation.

Occom Council

The Occom Council, founded in 1920, is a body whose function is chiefly that of co-operating with Palaeopitus in acting as a medium between Palaeopitus and the undergraduate body and in helping toward the realization of the object of the former body. The Council's object is practically the same as that of Palaeopitus, the former arranging more of the details and execution of activities than does the latter. The Council has charge of such things as Intramural Contests, Special Train Concessions, and Class Elections.

The Occom Council is composed of the Presidents and Secretaries of the four classes, a representative of Palaeopitus, and a member chosen from the Senior Class who is exofficio chairman of the body.

Dartmouth College Council on Student Organizations

SEASON OF 1927-1928

The Players, Musical Clubs, Band, Forensic Union and The Arts are under the control of the Council on Student Organizations. The Council includes the three members of the Faculty Committee on Student Organizations, one representative of the Alumni Association, and three undergraduates selected by the Council from the organizations under its control.

The Council annually conducts a Sophomore competition leading to the managerships of the Band, Forensic Union, Musical Clubs, Players, the Publicity Bureau, which serves all the organizations under the Council, and Head Usher.

The Players have presented "Seven Keys to Baldpate", three one-act plays, a student-written Carnival Show "The Green Peach", Pirandello's "Right You Are", and several dramas during the spring.

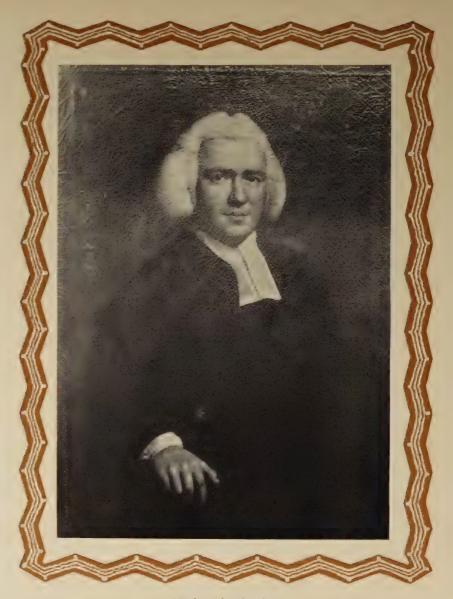

The Band travelled to the Harvard and Yale football games, played at all the home football games as well as at other contests, and officiated at Carnival and Commencement.

The Musical Clubs made a Thanksgiving Trip into four nearby states, and a Spring Trip of over 5,000 miles going as far west as Denver, in addition to Glee Club trips to Smith and to the National Intercollegiate Glee Club contest.

The Forensic Union is a prominent member of the Eastern Intercollegiate Debating League and participated in several league, and a few outside, debates including one with a representative English Team.

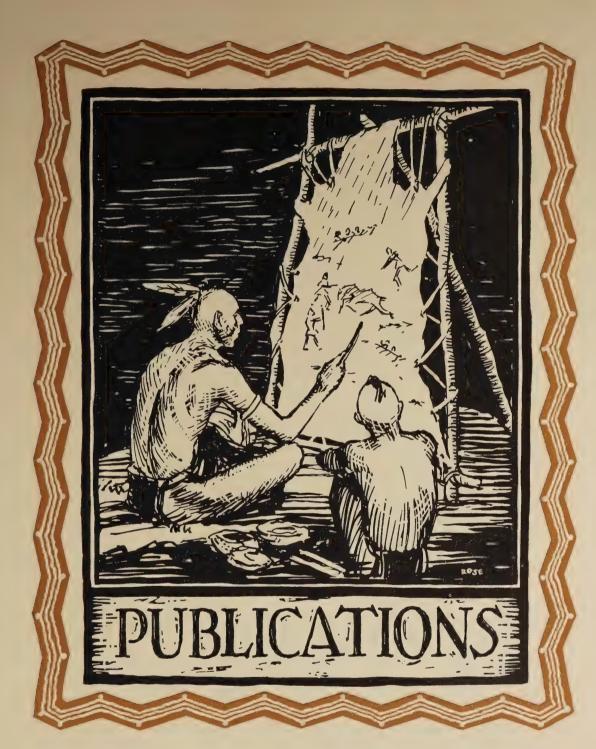

The Arts sponsored lectures by Bliss Carman, Upton Sinclair, Lewis Browne and Wyndham Lewis, and in cooperation with the Art Department arranged two art exhibits.

Far distant in the annals of the past, an epic occasion occurred, and, in the year 1858, the Aegis first made its appearance before a skeptical Dartmouth audience. At this time it was printed in quarto form, but a publication similar to the present one existed as early as 1851. The book was issued three times a year, shortly after the opening of each term, and was little more than a college directory, its pages being devoted to a list of the college officers and students, besides a brief account of the societies and organizations then in existence. Some few pages were given to editorial matter and the whole was sold for the sum of five cents a copy, even bringing a profit to its undergraduate managers, when they exercised extreme care in its editing.

In 1867, the form of publication was changed from quarto to pamphlet, and a few steel engravings of fraternity crests were introduced to lend the book a somewhat individual air of distinction. In 1872 a revolutionary measure took place, seven whole pages of advertising being included to assure the financial success of the enterprise.

The added remuneration derived from the advertisements permitted an expansion, and in 1874 the book changed from a triennial to an annual, and was very much enlarged. Each year thenceforward marked the addition of some new feature and also an increase in the cost of the annual, necessitated by the more elaborate make-up. Moreover, the editors of the publication assumed the privilege of using the Aegis as a medium for directing very personal digs at various members of the college community who had incurred their enmity. The foreword of an Aegis of that period is characteristic of such an attitude: "Before perusing these pages we would lead you apart, buttonhole you, as it were, and confidentially impart to you, reader, a friendly hint. While we would guard our Alma Mater from every hostile shaft, we have seen fit, anon, to wield the sword of satire. We trust it has been used impartially. Let him who feels it remember our kind intent toward Dartmouth, and toward each child of her fostering care." This policy was continued until two decades ago when it reached its height as expressed in the foreword to that edition: "Never retract, never explain, never apologize; get the thing done and let the crowd howl."

The increased cost, as well as the satirical editorials, incurred the disfavor of the student body and it was evident that a change of policy was necessary if the Aegis was to continue its existence. Such a change was effected, and today the Aegis has beome a comprehensive publication reflecting all phases of Dartmouth life. In 1924, another revolutionary change took place, and the Aegis, which has remained a Junior publication from its inception, was changed to a Senior Book in order to include a more complete record of the class. At this time the Aegis again underwent an exceedingly trying period, but the second edition of the Class of 1924, which was merely a transitory volume, was followed by the 1925 class book, which assumed more pretentious proportions, and the foundations for the Aegis of today were laid.

In order to contribute to the program of expansion which has been characteristic of the Aegis in the past, and with the sincere desire to create a medium capable of perpetuating the memory of the many activities and friendships of the past year, the 1928 Aegis board has devoted its every effort to make this book a complete and accurate record of the history of Dartmouth College during this, the 159th year of its existence.

The Dartmouth

Humbly founded in 1839, in a period during which campus publications of questionable character were mushrooming and withering almost every day, The Dartmouth of former days found itself hard pressed to maintain a foothold in the maelstrom of campus life. The tottering paper was forced out of existence after its first five years of publication, but was revived in 1867. It immediately pushed itself head and shoulders above the other periodicals which appeared from time to time, and carved for itself a permanent niche in the normal activity of the college.

The gradual development of the paper received a powerful impetus in 1913, when it was incorporated under the laws of Maine. Another step which enabled the paper to greatly enhance its service to the college was its installation as a member of the Associated Press and the Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association. Thus The Dartmouth is able not only to present a faithful record of daily events occurring within the college, but also keeps the undergraduates in constant touch with the more important happenings of the outside world.

In addition to its Hanover circulation, which reaches practically all of the undergraduate and faculty members of the college, it is read by over a thousand alumni in all parts of the country.

A large amount of attention has in recent years been focussed on the editorial columns of the paper. Being entirely in the hands of undergraduates, and entirely free from the censorship of anyone outside the paper itself, the editorial columns have maintained a freedom of expression and an honesty of belief unusual for a college newspaper. This freedom did not grow up overnight but parallelled to some degree the slow development of the paper. The ultimate result is that the editorial columns of The Dartmouth form a healthy outlet for student grievances and opinions, while the adjoining Vox Populi department collaborates to make out of the paper a valuable forum for the discussion of campus thought and campus activities.

Jack O'Lantern—Dartmouth's gift to a morbid, depressed, and overworked student-body—is, if we are to believe its editors, a comic magazine which appears more or less regularly nine times a year. It contains drawings, cartoons, humorous articles, verses in the lighter vein, and, every now and then, jokes.

Two staffs, literary and business, combine to make Jacko one of the leading publications of its kind in the country. Not altruism alone, but a very substantial financial consideration for Senior officers is the motive underlying the busy activity one sees, if one happens to look, in 16 Robinson Hall every hour of the day and night. Election to the Literary and Art Boards is based upon the attainment of a certain minimum of printed material. Business heelers are elected when they inveigle great-hearted advertisers into signing sufficiently generous advertising contracts.

In the past, it has been the policy of editorial boards to make the special Winter Carnival number compare favorably in size with Sears-Roebuck catalogues or New York telephone directories. This year, however, the size of the magazine was kept within somewhat more reasonable limits, with, let us hope, a consequent improvement in quality.

Jacko's favorite objects of ridicule are: ice-men, Smith girls, Brown University, and Prohibition. Jacko boasts that it is the one college comic which has never printed an imitation of the John Held Jr. school of drawing.

The perpetrators of this bi-monthly menace to morality are:

The Dartmouth Pictorial

The Dartmouth Pictorial presents a record in pictures of the college year. Action pictures of athletic events, scenes around Hanover, and pictures of the varied activities occurring on the campus are taken by the members of the photographic board and undergraduate contributors for each of the three issues of the year. Emphasis is placed on quality and interest of the pictures and mechanical details of plate work and composition. Elections to the business and photographic boards are made on the merit basis, and all undergraduates are eligible. This year the competition for the business board was changed so that a definite standard for election to the board has been secured. The photographic board has also extended its work to include instruction in the photographic processes. The Managing Editor, Advertising Manager, and Circulation Manager are chosen by a competition of the Junior business staff, the students chosen from it acting as assistants during their Junior year, and assuming offices during their Senior year. The photographic editor is the other officer, of financial remuneration, and is elected at the end of his Junior year, taking charge of his work during his Senior year.

The Tower

The Tower, founded in 1925 as a pioneer work in the combined fields of literature and criticism, is the only college publication in the country devoted to this particular field of endeavor. The magazine is published bi-weekly and contains the cream of Dartmouth's intellectual thought on the diverse topics of current happenings, literary criticisms, book reviews, essays, poetry, editorial matter and short stories. Since its inception, it has found increasing popularity among both undergraduates and faculty and is Dartmouth's most radical organ for proposed reforms and critical evaluation of current practices. The Tower differs from the other college publications as it is governed by a board of editors that are elected on the merits of their contributions to the book, rather than by means of the heeling system.

The last Royal Governor of New Hampshire (1766-1776), issued the Charter of Dartmouth College on December 13, 1769. His personal interest in religion and education, and his political ambitions in behalf of the Province, meant a great deal to the College. He attended the first Commencement, held in 1771, when four students were graduated.

Dartmouth Musical Clubs

The success of the Musical Clubs seemed assured early in the fall, when tryouts attracted nearly two hundred men, many of these having had previous experience in different phases of the work.

Their first trip was made during Thanksgiving vacation and included concerts in New London, Montclair, Brattleboro, and Springfield. This was followed, in the early part of December, by a Christmas Carol service, given at Northampton in conjunction with the Smith College Glee Club.

The next and major concert of the year was rendered in Carnegie Hall, New York, during the early part of March, a preliminary concert being given in West Hartford, Conn., en route. The concert in Carnegie Hall was an intercollegiate affair, held annually under the auspices of the University Glee Club of New York in competition for their cup, and all of the larger colleges and universities in the country were represented. Dartmouth was awarded the cup for the second time, and should they succeed in taking first place next year, the cup will be theirs permanently. At the present time, Yale and Harvard have each won the cup twice, and will offer Dartmouth strong competition for its possession, the requirements being that one Glee Club shall win the cup three times to count it as their permanent trophy. Each club offered a number of its own choice, the prescribed prize song which was "The Broken Melody" by Sebilius, and one of their own college songs. These were judged on a basis of tone, diction, pitch, ensemble and interpretation.

The annual Spring trip this year was the longest ever undertaken by any college musical organization and the diversity and completeness of the combined clubs, consisting of the Glee Club, Instrumental Club, Barbary Coast Orchestra and several specialty acts, was such as to appeal to all schools of musical appreciation. The Dartmouth Instrumental Club, is the only college organization in the country with a full woodwind choir, which qualifies it to undertake the most difficult classics. The trip covered over five thousand miles and the itinerary included the principle cities of the East and Middle West. Concerts were given at Albany, Philadelphia, New York, Rochester, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Sioux City, Denver, Kansas City and Cincinnati.

Organized Dramatics, 1892-1928

The Dartmouth Dramatic Association was formed in the fall of 1892. Sheridan's "A School for Scandal," an old favorite for amateur productions, was the first and only presentation of that year. This, however, was the first organized attempt at dramatics in the college, and because of the long time it has taken for this activity to develop at Dartmouth we may reasonably surmise that little success attended the first effort.

Briefly, the history of dramatics at Dartmouth before 1928 may be divided into five epochs, as follows: the pre-Wanger, the Wanger, the pre-Paquin, the Paquin, and the Packard. The first of these might well be termed "The Dark Ages" as far as actual success and development are concerned. During the first few years, up until 1901, such plays as "David Garrick," "Twelfth Night," and "A School for Scandal" were presented, and, as it seems, were nothing more than yearly occurrences. The poor success, however, is more to be pitied then censured, and may well be accounted for by the extreme lack of facilities and material. Bissel Hall, then the gymnasium, was the only theatre, and student talent for writing anything worth the hardships of productions was decidedly lacking.

From 1901 until 1913 "The Dark Ages" showed some light, and several names in particular stand out as beacons in that period, notably Clarence G. Howes, '03, W. L. Hartshorn, '03, and Harry R. Wellman, '07. Howes arranged the music for two operettas produced in 1902 and 1903, Hartshorn wrote "Too Many Cousins," the first play written, directed, and produced by students, and Wellman wrote the music and lyrics for "The Founders," produced first in 1906 and again during the Webster Centennial Celebration. Except for the work of these three men, the period of 1892 to 1913 can be passed over lightly. Each of the three was a pioneer in his field, and to the pioneers must be given the credit. It is interesting to note that in 1907 College Hall became the scene of the dramatic activities and in 1908 Webster Hall was used for the first time. Between 1906 and 1913 the most outstanding event in dramatic history was the production of a Greek play staged on the campus. It attracted wide attention throughout the state and was attended by many notables, alumni, and the whole student body. This was the most aspiring effort until the Wanger period.

Then came Walter Wanger. To him Dartmouth owes much of its dramatic growth. In a single year, 1913-14, by his almost unaided efforts, productions lost their amateurish commonplaceness and assumed a mantle of superiority. Over twenty oneact plays were given that year, both in Hanover and on the road. In one week, from Wednesday to Wednesday, seven one-act plays, perfect in detail and action, were run off. The Fulton Theatre in New York was the scene of a highly successful performance of that year's Carnival Show, "The Misleading Lady," which was being simultaneously produced by a Broadway company. David Belasco, Percy MacKaye writing in Theatre Magazine, Luther Anthony, editor of the Dramatist, and Laurette Taylor in the New York Times were generous with their praise of the quality of the Dartmouth Association's production.

The Dartmouth Dramatic Association passed out of existence in the fall of 1920. In its stead came the Dartmouth Players seeking greater scope. George L. Frost, now an instructor in English, was the first president. An interesting sidelight on the activities of the Players about this time was the formation of an inner conclave known as the Lambs. It included only those who had shown themselves worthy of recognition in histrionics, but the club dissolved before the 1923-24 season opened. Not much can be said for the productions of the years 1920-23 except that distance does truly lend enchantment to the Carnival shows "Rise, Please," "Hush," and "The Sahara Derby". It was with the last named show that the Players undertook their first extensive road trip, which proved successful from every point of view except that of the treasurer.

The Paquin period, which began in 1923, might well be called the Second Renaissance. Lawrence Paquin came here when the outlook was anything but bright. Under his direction, Lockwood '24, Kelsey '25, Smith '26, and others enabled the Players to look back upon a golden past and forward to a prismatic future. "Rollo's Wild Oats," by Clare Kummer, "The Admirable Bashville," by Shaw, and "The Hairy Ape," by Eugene O'Neill, were the outstanding productions of the 1923-24 season. In February, 1924, the Players called for manuscripts for the 1925 Carnival show, offering a prize for the one selected as the best. This was decidedly an innovation in dramatic life at Dartmouth, and of the large number submitted for consideration, "Atmosphere," by Warren Murray '27 and David Merriam '27, was selected.

Encouraged by the showing of the Players in 1923, it was decided to undertake a more ambitious program in 1924. "Catherine the Great," by Shaw, was notable. Produced with it was "Aria," by Disque '25. Other productions of that season worthy of mention were "The Flare of the Match," a melodrama by Kent McKinley, "He Who Gets Slapped," by Leonid Andrieve, and Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night". For the first time in the history of dramatics at Dartmouth, women were used in the cast of a play. "He Who Gets Slapped" was so produced.

In 1925, "The Poor Nut," by E. and J. C. Nugent, was produced for the first time on an amateur stage. "The Silver Box," by John Galsworthy, was presented in the Little Theatre in December. Marshall McClintock and J. J. Hill wrote "The Dancing Princess," a comic opera, to win the Players' prize for the Carnival offering, which appeared twice. During spring vacation this show completed a successful trip among several eastern cities. The remainder of the season was occupied by Shakespeare's "The Tempest" and the Prom Revue.

Dramatics in 1926-27 were under the directorship of the able and ingenious Frederick C. Packard. He brought to the Players exactly what was needed in the form of a touch of professionalism, and more complete finesse in production. "Captain Applejack" and Barrie's "Dear Brutus," a difficult undertaking, were both accorded great successes. Due to the fact that the student contributions for a Carnival show were not considered suitable, the Players decided upon somewhat of an innovation. Instead of the usual student-written play, "The Chocolate Soldier," the well known musical adaptation of Shaw's "Arms and the Man," was produced under the able direction of Professor Longhurst. The rest of the year was occupied with O'Neill's "The Great God Brown" and the Prom Revue. The former was one of the first amateur productions of Eugene O'Neill's latest success, and besides being the greatest undertaking in the history of Dartmouth dramatics, it attracted much interest from the rest of the theatre world.

Upon Mr. Packard's resignation, the services of Walter S. Stainton were fortunately secured. The 1927-28 season for the Players opened with their sponsoring of the New York Theatre Guild production, "The Guardsman". This was continuing the policy, inaugurated last spring when Mrs. Fiske appeared in Ibsen's "Ghosts", of bringing to Hanover outside attractions of merit.

The first of the Players' own productions, given in November, was "Seven Keys to Baldpate," by George M. Cohan. This was followed early in December by three one-act plays, "The Valiant," by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemas, "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," by Bernard Shaw, and "Fancy Free," written by Stanley Houghton.

"The Green Peach," a musical comedy by Charles B. Gaynor '29 and Neal R. Dowe '28, was selected from a competition for the 1928 Carnival show and was presented in Webster Hall, February 10 and 11. The success of this show was evidenced by the number of its songs which became popular campus tunes. The main serious production given during the spring by the Players was "Right You Are If You Think You Are," by Luige Pirandello, one of the foremost Italian dramatists. The annual Prom Revue consisted of a number of student-written skits.

The year has been marked by a stabilization of organization, especially in the production staff. The policy begun last year of properly featuring this department has been continued by Mr. Stainton, Director of the Players, and F. H. Burleigh '28, Student Director. A great deal of permanent equipment has been added to the Players' storehouses.

The Council on Student Organizations has established the production of musical comedies as a separate function of the Players and has formed a separate staff for their selection and preparation. Professor Ernest B. Watson was selected as Chairman of the Staff, Professor Harry R. Wellman as Faculty Advisor and Professor Maurice F. Longhurst as Director of Musical Comedies, and a student director for this department was authorized.

Forensic Activities

Debating was featured in the fall of 1927 by the appearance in Hanover of an English team representing the National Students' Union. The University of Reading, the University of London, and the University of Edinburgh each contributed a member of this team. The members of the Dartmouth team were I. Rubin '28, E. H. Lyman '28 and T. E. Hayes '29. The subject was, Resolved: That This House Deplores the Democratic Tendency in American Life.

The English gentlemen, as always, drew a large audience because of their apparent ease and broad knowledge. The custom of having one English team come each year to the campus is valuable in that the exchange of views proves very helpful. In this particular debate there was no decision, as the Englishmen preferred not to be bound by having to speak for a decision.

The schedule of the Eastern Intercollegiate League started before the Christmas holidays. Dartmouth sent a team to Williams, while Princeton came to Hanover. The second triangular debate was held after Carnival with Yale and Wesleyan as the opponents. The third and last triangular debate was held March 24, with Pennsylvania and Amherst taking part. From the standpoint of debates won, it was not a particularly successful season. However, the debates were of a high order and considerable interest was shown in them.

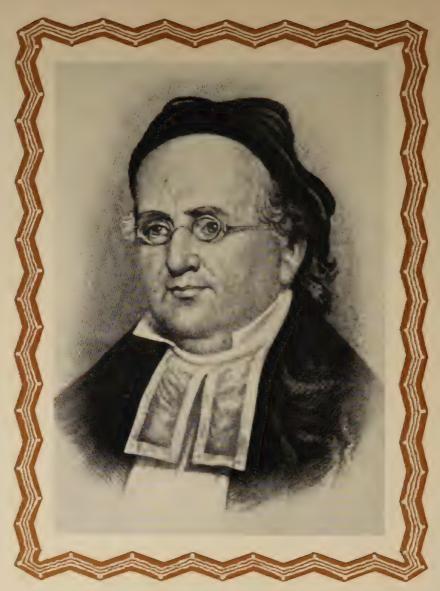

The men participating in League debates were: R. E. Ela, '30, S. A. Adams, '30, K. B. Rodi, '30, W. H. Brisbin, '28, I. Rubin, '28, R. B. Ryan, '30, E. A. Ross, '29, B. F. Swisher, Jr., '28, J. G. Boyle, '29 and J. W. Martin, '29.

As a result of outside criticism and dissatisfaction among members of the union itself, a reorganization has been effected. The work of the Forensic Union was henceforth to be arranged by one man to avoid duplication. In order to centralize the responsibility in one man, the manager became responsible for all engagements and details pertaining to each debate. It was decided that a president should be elected each year by the men in college who had participated in an Intercollegiate debate. This position is honorary, and the president will not necessarily have anything to do with the mechanics of the organization.

The call for candidates for the freshman team brought out a large number of men. From this group J. M. O'Connor, C. E. Rhetts, G. D. Morris, J. B. Gathright, and W. S. Siferd were chosen to represent Dartmouth in debates with Boston University Freshmen, Boston College Freshmen, Tufts Freshmen, M. I. T. Freshmen, Lawrence High School, and Exeter.

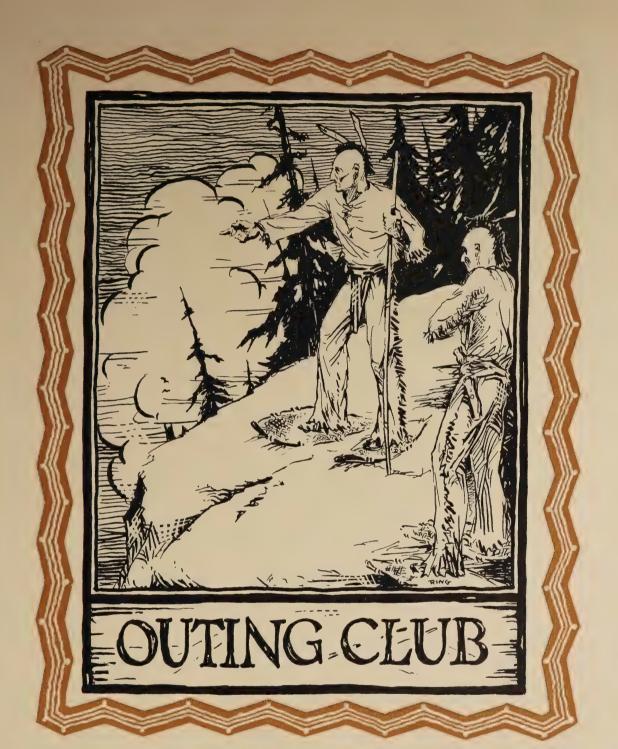

Last year Dartmouth was host to the other eight colleges in the East which compose the Eastern Intercollegiate League. The colleges included in this League are: Dartmouth, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Amherst, Pennsylvania, Wesleyan, Brown and Williams. A year ago it was thought that the organization in the League was weak, and during the convention in May of last year, Dartmouth considered withdrawing. However, in view of legislation passed primarily to satisfy Dartmouth, her membership in the League was retained another year, but it has become obvious that an independent schedule would be the better arrangement. For this reason Dartmouth withdrew from the League this May.

The popularity of debate is about the same from year to year. Its value lies in the training which it gives to men interested in law as a vocation and the art of presentation of argument. The Forensic Union itself is now organized on a much firmer basis, and will give more satisfaction to those with whom it comes in contact.

The 1927-28 Season of the Dartmouth Outing Club

The Dartmouth Outing Club, the oldest and most outstanding organization of its kind in the collegiate world, was founded in 1909 by a small group of outdoor enthusiasts who recognized the latent sporting possibilities of the New Hampshire hills. Fred H. Harris '11 was the first president of the Club, and in the nineteen succeeding years it has become the just reward of the organization to be one of the leading undergraduate activities on the campus. Its membership includes a majority of the faculty as well as most of the undergraduates.

At the beginning of the season it was voted to adopt the new system of administration which had been under consideration for a year. The Club had become too unwieldy for one man to handle and it was voted to invest the control of the Directing Council completely in undergraduate hands. The President has been replaced by six department chairmen, and the nominal head of the Club, under the present arrangement, is the head of the Council.

This arrangement has proven itself already by making it possible for 217 Freshmen to be actively interested in D. O. C. work. These men are no longer "heeling" in the old sense of the word, where they worked on a competitive basis for election to Cabin and Trail. They are working as their own interest directs them and for their own good and those men who prove worthy will be elected to Cabin and Trail. An active program has been run through for their instruction. "Fire-side Talks" have been given in 22 Robinson by men who are well known in the sporting world, cabin trips have been led by experienced and interested Cabin and Trail men, a special Winter Sports managerial heeling competition has been started, and with the diversified office work and the special heeling competition at Carnival time, which called out a larger group of heelers than ever before, these men are rapidly becoming acquainted with the Club's work and administration.

A total of nineteen thoroughly equipped and carefully located cabins composes the D. O. C. chain to which the latest addition is the new Winter Room, modeled after the style of a Swiss cottage, on the Southeastern slope of the summit of Moosilauke. This newest cabin on the chain is unique in the New England mountains. Its triple layers of floors, walls, and roof, each a different type of weather proofing, and its stoves and comfortable spring bunks make it one of the favorite White Mountain shelters for Dartmouth men.

In the original by-laws of the Club the purpose of the organization is stated in this manner: "The object of the Dartmouth Outing Club shall be the promotion in the college of camping, tramping, mountain climbing, snowshoeing, skiing, woodcraft, and similar outdoor activities." This purpose has been foremost in the program of the Outing Club throughout the year, and the number and success of the trips run during each season compares favorably with the results of previous years.

Early fall saw four very successful week-end trips run to Cardigan, Mansfield, Poco and Killington, and Mt. Washington, with parties totaling 54 men. During the Thanksgiving Recess a series of ten trips accommodating 187 men were run to the Outing Club cabins, and to Poco and Killington, the loftiest peaks in Vermont, and Mt. Lafayette in the White Mountains. A free Turkey Dinner, the donation of John E. Johnson '66, was given by the Outing Club on each of these trips and thirty men who were not included in one of these vacation trips enjoyed a special Turkey Dinner at Moose Cabin on Thanksgiving Day.

The ascent of Mt. Washington in mid-winter, made each year by members of the Outing Club was successfully accomplished four different times this year, and approximately 20 men composed each trip; one of these ascents being made by the Annual All-Senior group. An entirely new variety of trip was run to Crawford Notch to take advantage of the unusual skiing on the ski trails of Mts. Crawford, Carrigan, and Willard, and proved so successful that it is probable that several such trips will be run next year.

Carnival, on which undergraduate attention, particular the Outing Club, is focused from Christmas until February, was the eighteenth in the history of the Outing Club and a notable success in spite of the most unfavorable weather conditions in years. Its exceedingly colorful features of Fancy Skating at the Outdoor Evening program, the spectacular I. W. S. U. Championship Ski-jumping and the thrilling slalom race down the icy face of Pierce's hill were made even more brilliant by the softly falling snow that opportunely covered the almost barren hills about Hanover. And the Medieval Costume Ball with its newly chosen "Queen of the Snows" and her picturesque body guard of armored knights was a pompous spectacle.

The Winter Sports Team, sponsored by the Outing Club, this year had one of the most distinguished coaching staffs in collegiate circles. S. Steinwall, holder of the Fiskartorps Cup and an internationally known skier, was the coach of the varsity Winter Sports Team. The recreational skiers were instructed by German Raab, a graduate of the University of Munich and a well-known European skier. Skiing in Hanover took a great step along lines of technique and equipment in spite of the few opportunities to exercise and practice. The season closed triumphantly in the Interclass Meet and the Moosilauke Down Mountain Race. The Down Mountain Race held on March 4 for the championship of the college, and run down the Carriage Road on Moosilauke attracted 37 men including the Ski Team. C. K. Sanborn '28 won the race and D. Hight '30 placed first in class B.

Occum Pond was scraped, lighted, and kept in condition for the longest period of continuous skating that Hanover has ever enjoyed by the cooperation of the Outing Club and other college and community organizations. A highpowered group of flood lights illuminated the pond every evening until ten o'clock, and the curling rink was in use during the entire season. The phenominal increase of interest in skating was in evidence by the large crowds of skaters that made use of the opportunities this year. Before the skating season was under way Charles Jewtraw, the Olympic Champion, visited Hanover to help the Winter Sports Team skaters, but he was called away before weather conditions made it possible for him to be of great assistance to the team.

The publications are limited to the "Annual Report" and a "Bulletin" of past, present, and future activities of the Club which appears at two month intervals, and is sent to all the present members of the Club and all old members of Cabin and Trail.

The 1928 Winter Sports Team Season

What promised to be a successful and busy season opened with the Winter Sports Team participating in the College Week Tournament at the Lake Placid Club, December 29, 30, 31. With leading representatives from all the colleges in the East within the snow area, besides the very best from the Middle West and Canada, competing, Dartmouth placed fourth in the number of points scored. Wisconsin led with 23 points, McGill and New Hampshire tied for second with 16, Dartmouth with 12, Syracuse 11, Ottawa 8, Vermont 1, Middlebury 1, completed the scoring.

Outstanding was the work of Captain Proctor who won the individual high scoring honors of the meet with nine points to his credit. He took first in the one mile downhill skii race, third in the gruelling seven mile cross-country race, and third in the jumping.

For a while it looked as if the Intercollegiate Winter Sports Union Championships, scheduled for our Carnival week-end, would have to be postponed because of lack of snow and ice. However, a sufficient fall of snow and a drop in temperature assisted in making the meet a success in every way. Greatly weakened by the loss of Captain Proctor who was a member of the Olympic Team, Dartmouth did well to place third with 14 points. New Hampshire's 30 points were enough to win the meet, while McGill was second with 26. G. K. Sanborn, '28 won a third in the slalom race, M. W. Whittemore, '28 a third in the jumping, A. Ryan, '29 a fourth in the two mile speed skating, J. R. Chapman, '31 a fourth in the 440-yard speed skating, D. B. Cruikshank, '31 a first in the figure skating and a second in the jumping.

The Divisional Meet at the University of New Hampshire was cancelled on account of lack of good snow conditions. Williams College could not hold its annual Carnival Meet for a similar reason. However, various members of the team entered individually in three other meets and showed extraordinary promise.

At the New England States Championship Meet at Brattleboro, February 19, D. B. Cruikshank, '31 placed third, R. L. Billings, '30 sixth, J. F. Bond, '28, twelfth, all in Class B.

At the Massachusetts State Championships, February 22, H. M. Sander, '30 won the five mile cross-country title. Among those who trailed him were Dustin and Pederson of the University of New Hampshire. The former was the winner of the Carnival cross-country race at Hanover, and Pederson of the jumping.

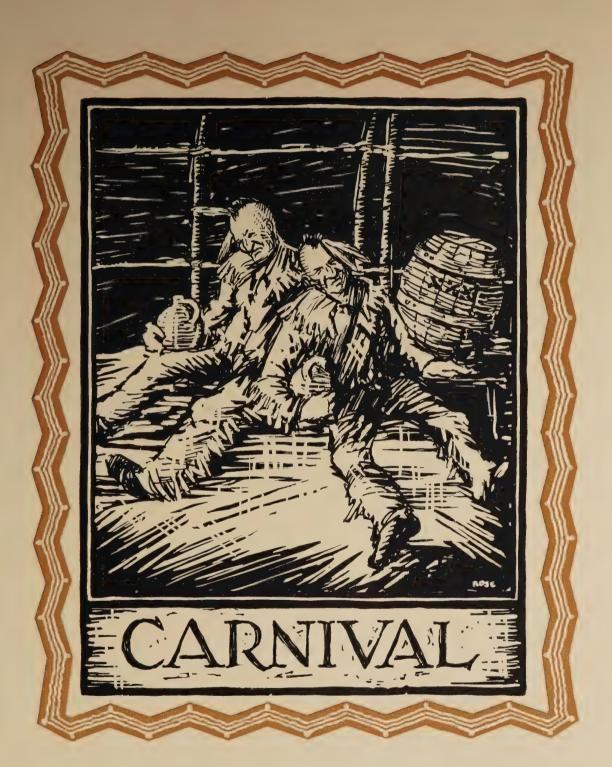

The same day, Washington's Birthday, at Lake Placid, D. B. Cruikshank, placed second in Class B of the 8th Annual Open Tournament. He had long leaps of 146 and 147 feet to his credit.

When the season opened, prospects seemed extremely bright for a successful year in the competitions. C. N. Proctor, '28, captain of the team for two years, was chosen to be one of the three members of the United States Olympic Ski Team. Proctor won 14th place, a performance which, in the company of the finest jumpers in the world, is highly commendable.

Especially gratifying is the promise shown by the freshman and sophomore members of the team. In spite of the unfavorable weather conditions, more interest than ever before has been shown by undergraduates in skiing and skating. This had been due in no small measure to the efforts of Coach Sig Steinwell, in charge of the ski team, Jerry Raab, in charge of the recreational squad, and Charles Jewtraw, who was here to help the speed skaters in January. Never before has such expert instruction been at the disposal of the student body, and their work has already shown its results. With plenty of snow and ice, next winter should prove a banner one in winter sports.

1928 Winter Carnival

For three days Father Time lost track of things while Terpsichore and Bacchus reigned Imperial Lords as Dartmouth swayed and glided under the magic influence of its eighteenth annual Winter Carnival. For three weeks Lachesis had spun a thread of dearth—Carnival seemed doomed by destiny. But the great gods were compassionate, the fates relented and three short hours before the expected arrival of Aphrodite's court, King Boreas blew a fluttering blast of flakes and completely blanketed the barren ground with sparkling snow. Forgotten were the Muses as Hanover rapidly filled with gay, smiling girls, garnered from even the most distant parts of the country and accompanied by a retinue of chaperons, photographers and feature writers.

A moment of rest and welcome in the fraternity houses and then the three day whirl that is Carnival commenced with the Musical Club's Tea Dance at Robinson Hall. A brief respite for dinner and soft fur coats were snugly wrapped around charming bits of femininity as Outdoor Evening announced itself with the thundering crash and celestial light of aerial bombs. It is but a short walk to Occom Pond when the clear cold wind of northern night is fanning the cheeks of an enraptured girl, leaning ever so lightly on a stalwart male arm, and the endless avenue of evergreens is bedecked with multicolored flares. Two towering columns adorned the ice wall through which the strolling couples descended past an aisle of balsams to wind-screened bleachers. Facing them, the iridescent pond and ice palace sparkled under the radiance of powerful flood lights, and shone brilliantly against a background of the less vivid, snowclad hills. Not less dazzling was the animated skating of Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb, and the swelling refrains of "The Hanover Winter Song", rendered by the Glee Club, was equally pleasing.

A Queen is always needed to grace the kingdom of any happy land and never did the Arabian Nights tell of a more charming and graceful Sovereign than the one chosen by Dartmouth's most sagacious judges of beauty. The regal smile of Princess Florence Rice reduced even the most recalcitrant of those in the gay kingdom of Carnival to willing and admiring subjects. Not even the fabled Queens of history were crowned with more stirring ceremony; and her beauty and personality won the universal acclaim of every Dartmouth courtier throughout the happy days of her rule. A huge bonfire marked the close of the program and with a Queen to rule them, the Carnivalites gaily gave themselves over to joy, and returned to the fraternity houses for the evening dances. Ecstacy reached its zenith with the fitful light of a pallid moon, but revelry did not wane until dawn streaked the sky.

Friday brought renewed life and its anathema, classes. Some were attended—most were not. Shortly after noon, barges left for Balch Hill where slalom races and intercollegiate skiing contests held the attention of the spectators until interest centered in the gym where Dartmouth clashed with the Springfield Mermen. Again the Wah-Hoo-Wahs echoed and re-echoed success, and feminine hearts were pleased. A moment to dine, another to dress and scurrying feet were directed to Webster Hall for "The Green Peach". It was a strangely attired audience that witnessed the vicissitudes of Jeanette Gentile, nee Jane Gentle, and one that adequately rewarded the players for their fine production by spontaneous and hearty appreciation. When Eros finally pierced the heart of Jane with a dart that sent her into the arms of her lover, the curtain rang down and the audience issued into the night humming "In Our Little Boat."

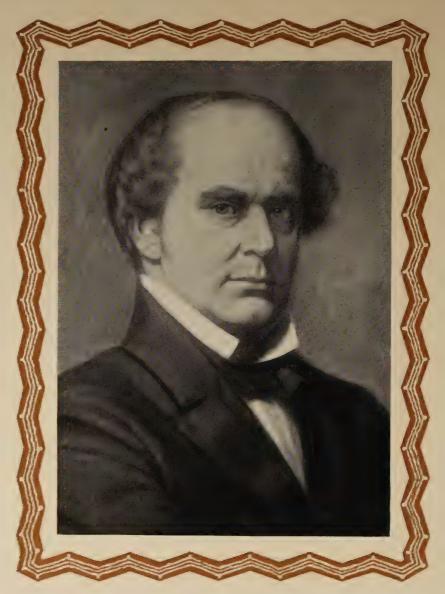

It was an odd sight to behold the heterogeneity of frolickers, passing before the myriad of lights that so seldom lend their presence to Old Dartmouth-knights, squires, pilgrims, Saracens, courtly ladies, Gueniveres, Launcelots,—it was as though all the books in the world had emptied their characters into Hanover that they might joyously wend their way to the gymnasium. And how it too was metamorphosed! The room that sometime spelled the doom of intellectual aspirations transformed into an abiding place for gay abandon. As the never ending stream of revelers entered by the postern gate, they were confronted by a dimly lighted, Medieval castle, and far to the distance the turrets and battlements of still another castle blended with high buttressed walls and overhanging balustrades. Soft ripples of ecstatic laughter mingled with soothing melodies of love. Joyous shouts of unquenchable mirth heightened the crash of cymbals and the wailing of trumpets, shrieking their irresistible jazz. A momentary pause—then terror and confusion. A wild and fierce band of robbers had attacked the ball. A furious clash of swords—the robbers vanquished by the brave and gallant knights—again the blatant shrieks of screaming jazz, and unconfined joy. French Cardinals swayed with penitent tango dancers one minute, and the next waltzed with Oriental Princesses. The moon faltered. . . and once more Morpheus beckoned.

Saturday, and dark-eyed adventuresses of the previous evening are again gay, smiling Carnival girls. Shimmering silk shawls have been replaced by warm fur coats; and Cinderella's slippers are now galoshes. Yale and Dartmouth are fighting for honors on the hockey rink and the sons of Eli are rubbing salt on old wounds. It is disappointing, of course, but there is no room for sorrow during Carnival. Afternoon, and the climax of outdoor activities. Winged ski-birds poise themselves in the heavens, to plunge into the Vale of Tempe, far below. There is magic rubbed into those skis, for they alight from the heights with the grace of Pegasus riding the clouds. But even this must end.

Again the fraternity houses are filled, and feet trip to the undulating syncopation of orchestras. Thence to the gym where battle is being waged with Harvard on the basketball court. It is a victory, of course,—merely to please the expectant girls. After the game, and "The Green Peach" is on again, considerably ripened since the previous performance.

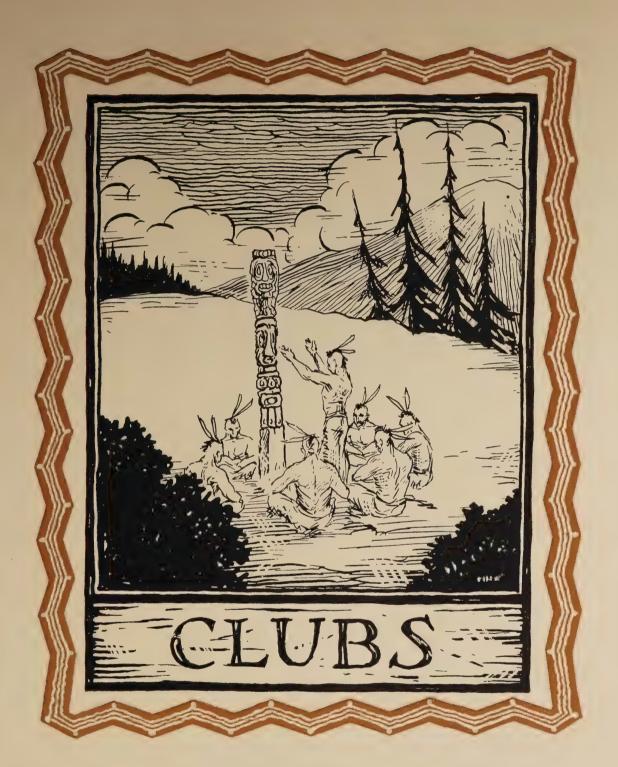

Already the morrow is coming on with a rush and the past is slipping away into reminiscence. The aging hours are clung to with even greater tenacity. But all things must end and after one last stand at the fraternity houses, King Carnival sheds his mantle, casts a wistful glance or two and disappears from the eyes of all, leaving behind him a multitude of tender memories to sweeten dreams and strengthen hopes. Though short, his was a glorious reign.

The eternal aftermath. Sleighs, Ledyard Bridge and the Norwich station. Steamy locomotives repelling the fluttering, white snow flakes with their gritty paintings. Seats overflowing with baggage, and car after car filled with weary but smiling girls. Goodbyes and kisses, and softly hummed tunes of "In Our Little Boat". A final shriek of the whistle. A thundering belch of smoke. A short jerk. Perhaps a tear. Adieu . . . And nothing left but memories.

Salmon P. Chase

Graduated from Dartmouth in 1826, and became a famous lawyer, attaining highest rank in the judiciary. He was Governor of Ohio, Secretary of the Treasury under Lincoln, and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

The Dartmouth Christian Association

The aim of the Dartmouth Christian Association is "to bring together those students who are seeking to find the place of religion in life and to find adequate ways of expressing the spirits and insights of Jesus in their own life of the college".

Membership is open to all students who are interested in and willing to associate themselves with a movement inquiring into the resources of religion for life and concerned to make some applications of these resources.

The direct responsibility for the progress of the Christian Association rests upon the Board and Cabinet and the various committees, with the assistance and counsel of the graduate secretary, and Alumni Committee.

The program is designed to meet the religious needs of the students on the campus, to stimulate thought and inquiry into the religious perplexities and to provide opportunities for expression and service. This year a weekly forum was held to consider some of the major aspects of religion in the relation to life under the leadership of several faculty men and visting chapel speakers. Cabin "feeds", discussion groups, conferences and other meetings contribute to the sharing of experience and information. The conduct of religious and social activity in several surrounding schools, the visitation of rural church communities and preparatory schools, and the leadership of boys' groups have given many fellows helpful experience and opportunities for service.

The office of the Dartmouth Christian Association is well located in College Hall, and important services are rendered including information of all kinds, the Lost and Found Bureau, Book Exchange, a reading table, and small library of religious periodicals and books for use of the student body.

For the past six years Dartmouth students and certain of its Alumni and friends have been supporting elementary school work by cooperation with H. W. Robinson, '10, in Paotingfu, North China. In addition to this project the Dartmouth Christian Association has other interests around the world through its federation with student groups in the National Council of Christian Associations and the World's Student Christian Federation.

Le Cercle Français

Le Cercle Français, fondé en 1900, est comfortablement installé à Robinson Hall, dans un ample salon luxueusement meublé à la française par la générosité de M. Edward Tuck.

Par son affiliation avec l'Alliance Français des Etats-Unis et de l'Angleterre, Le Cercle est an état de faire venir tous les ans à Hanover un ou plusieurs conférenciers français éminents. Cette année c'est M. André Maurois, le subtil auteur d'Ariel et de la Vie de Disraeli que nous avons eu le plaisir d'entendre.

André Maurois, le subtil auteur d'Ariel et de la Vie de Disraeli que nous avons eu le plaisir d'entendre.

Dans leurs fréquentes réunions les membres du Cercle ont l'occasion d'entendre des lectures et des causeries en français, soit par les membres du corps professoral, soit par des étudiants, sur des sujets variés; études littéraires, voyages, etc. Parfois des soirées musicales réunissent un grand nombre d'invités.

Encouragé par le succès du concours institué l'année dernière le Cercle a de nouveau offert un prix pour le meilleur essai écrit en français par un étudiant du collège.

En coopération avec le Département de Français, le Cercle a offert cette année au public deux séances dramatiques: "La Farce du Pendu dépendu" par Henri Ghéon, et "Le Médecin malgré lui" de Molière; une troisième séance est projetée.

Son activité s'est aussi portée cette année vers la création d'une "table française" dans l'un des restaurants de la ville et aux "Commons". Un nombre total d'environ trente membres se sont engagés à ne parler que le français durant les repas à ces tables.

In a statement of the original Liberal Club of Dartmouth, the principles of the present Round Table are embodied. The statement reads as follows: "The purpose of this organization is to bring about a fair and open-minded consideration of social, industrial, political, and international questions within the college," and further, "The organization shall espouse no creed or principle other than that of complete freedom of assembly and discussion. The ultimate aim will be to create among Dartmouth men an intelligent interest in the problems of the day." It is the purpose of the Round Table to secure the services of some of the most prominent speakers and thinkers of the day. After a public address in Hanover, the speaker and the members of this society join in a general discussion of the subject. It is by these discussions that the Round Table is attempting to carry out their ultimate aim, that of creating individual thinking among those who take the opportunities presented. Judging from the number attending public lectures, and the interest manifested in the discussions, it may be said that the society is succeeding in its purpose.

Numbered among the speakers the Round Table has secured are: Paul Blanshard, Bertrand Russell, John S. Sumner, and Crystal Eastman. In securing these men, the Round Table feels that it has been of great service to as many men as have seized the opportunity of hearing these speakers upon their appearance in Hanover.

The Ledyard Canoe Club

The Ledyard Canoe Club was founded in 1920 to give the undergraduate body an opportunity to participate in canoeing during the college year. The club's present equipment consists of 14 canoes, 3 cabins, and a boat house just north of the Ledyard Bridge. The three cabins are called John E. Johnson, Occom, and Chase. The John E. Johnson Cabin, situated on a small island in the Connecticut River about six miles north of Hanover, is named after the club's honorary president, the Rev. John E. Johnson, '66. Occom and Chase cabins are also situated along the river not far from Hanover. Members of the club may at any time during the canoeing season take trips to these cabins. There are accommodations for from 20 to 25 men.

Last spring the club sponsored three major trips and several smaller trips. These trips are usually taken by about 6 or 8 men and extend to the White River, Lake Champlain, Lake George, and the Hudson River. The biggest trip was from Colebrook to Hanover and required 3 days to complete. On this the well known 15 Mile Rapids were encountered and four members of the club made an unsuccessful attempt to negotiate them. As yet no member of the club has traversed these waters successfully. Other interesting trips taken by the club were on Lake Champlain, from Burlingham to St. Johns, Canada; and down the White River to White River Junction. There was also an exploratory trip on Lake George and the Hudson River.

In utilizing the waters around Hanover the club is becoming more popular with the undergraduate body and is steadily increasing in size. The affairs of the club are competently handled by a board of directors composed of a faculty member and eight student members.

Bait and Bullet

Bait and Bullet was founded in the fall of 1921. Its purpose is to bring together those undergraduates who are actively interested in hunting and fishing, and to assist in the propagation of fish and game about Hanover. A requisite for membership in the club is that members be properly licensed and that they also be familiar with the game laws of the state.

The organization maintains a hunting lodge at Cummings Pond in isolated and good game country. Members of the club also hunt further north in New Hampshire and in Maine.

Cramped Positions Cause Fatigue

Avoid Them When You Sleep

M ANY sagging beds seem comfortable because of long use. But actually the body is forced into strained, tiring positions . . . Most people sleep this way, never realizing the harmful results of the unnatural position they have become accustomed to.

Sagging, with its many ill effects, is impossible when you sleep on a De Luxe bed-spring. The De Luxe free coil construction, found in no other spring, insures a natural, restful sleeping position. Every coil in a De Luxe moves independently of all other coils, yielding to the pressure of hips and shoulders yet rising to relieve all strain on the vital organs between. The spine lies naturally, straight and free from strain. Nerves and muscles are fully relaxed . . . refreshing sleep comes quickly.

You will soon notice the invigorating effects of comfortable De Luxe sleep. Arrange with your furniture or department store for a trial of this better bed-spring. But be sure that you get a Rome De Luxe spring, for the true free coil movement that insures complete relaxation is found in no other bedspring.

When You Dine At The STATLER Ask for STEAK a la GULDEN

Dine some evening at the Statler, famous for its fine food. Say to your waiter, "Tell the chef I want a steak broiled a la Gulden". You have a new sensation in food appreciation waiting for you.

Steak a la Gulden has just that nicety of flavor, that rich tastiness which the great chefs—and only the great chefs—know how to create. Something in the intriguing, satisfying flavor will make you realize that this is the most delicious steak you ever ate.

Gulden's brings out a wonderful, hidden flavor in all meats that you never realized was there. This blended seasoning is a combination of the zestful, lively mustard seed with the choicest spices from distant lands. It is known as the perfect seasoner for cooking because it is the one seasoning complete in itself.

This is how the Chef at the STATLER

broils Steak a la Gulden

When You Interview Your First Employer

How will you impress him?

He will find in you the valuable qualities of youth: courage, enthusiasm, and new ideas. But will he find, added to these, the dependability and foresightedness that youth sometimes lacks?

Nothing inspires a prospective employer with such confidence as to find that a young man has already made provision for the future. A life insurance policy is a guaranty of the maturity of your viewpoint and the possession of a policy will give you a better standing, not only in your employer's eyes but in your own.

An endowment policy maturing at 65, with the advantages offered by our fourth option, is one of the best forms of insurance for a young man, as it affords the same protection as a life policy at nearly the same cost—and the face of the policy is returned to him when the endowment is paid up.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

FOUNDED IN 1769

F the early American college foundations which still exist in the name by which they were chartered, Dartmouth is the fourth oldest in the country. It is a Liberal Arts college offering numerous courses in nearly every field of study and granting the A.B. degree. The College is the outgrowth of a school founded by the Reverend Eleazar Wheelock in 1754 for the Christian Education of Indian youth. It was named for Lord Dartmouth, the school's most active patron in England, through whose influence, together with that of John Wentworth, governor of the province of New Hampshire, the interest in the school of King George III was enlisted. Its charter was granted by King George in 1769 and the college located on the tract of land given by the king for that purpose.

Admission to the Freshman class is gained by certificate or by examination. Certificates will be received from preparatory schools and high schools which are on our approved list, but men must enter from other schools by examination. No school will be approved that has not an established, regular, and thorough course of preparation for college. All schools which desire to be placed on our list of "approved schools" should send to the Director of Admissions for a printed form of application containing a statement of the conditions for the approval of a school and the requirements which must be met. No certificate will be accepted from a private tutor or instructor. All correspondence relating to admission, and requests for catalogues should be addressed to

Correspondence concerning rooms should be addressed to WILLARD M. GOODING, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds.
